DEMOCRACY'S PROBLEMS Democracy has two great prob lems-to represent the people and to represent the truth. If it fails in either, it cannot endure.

The fault of the demagogue is that he is satisfied with representing the people, and will even be guile them to his own ends. The fault of the arrogant autocrat or aristocrat is that he would give the people what he is confident is good for them, whether they want it or not.

The great triumph of men like The great triumph of men like Lincoln and Roosevelt was that they kept close to the people, but also brought the people close to the truth. Much can be done, as these examples show, by leadership. But it takes machinery, too. On the machinery side, the constitutions of Germany and Ireland are now undoubtedly the two best are now undoubtedly the two best on earth. They were made the best by the simple expedient of having "professors" write them. We shall likewise get good state constitutions, and ultimately a better national constitution in Amer-ica, when we turn the job over to the American Political Science As-

Meantime, forget Germany and forget the professors. They are both politically hoodooed. But consider Ireland. Anything Irish is at least politically possible.
Under the Irish constitution, the lower house of Parliament represents the people, and the upper house represents knowledge and interests. By bending all our policy to that end, we could easily corner all the gold, or drive what we did not get into hiding and therefore out of monetary existence. What then?

Obviously, if the rest of the world had no gold, it would have to find something else to replace the gold standard. Not necessarily the silver standard either. There are book schemes of commodity standards which are theoretically workable.

So long as the old world (which for America is still the present)

So long as the old world (which

So long as the old world (which for America is still the present world) existed, those schemes were merely an intellectual puzzle. But drain the world of its gold and they become a practical problem. They may become so anyway, with the world only half-drained

That is the reason why Controller Crissinger is worried over the continual influx of gold, and hopes that the flow will soon start outward. If we are to keep our gold valuable, we must find some way to share it with others.

Sugar will drop 40 cents in California tomorrow, according to the California-Hawaiian Sugar refinery San Francisco, one of the largest producers in the country. The sugar market broke sharply, the first announcement showing a cut at the refineries of 25 cents, to $9.35. The previous price was $9.50. This was followed a few hours later by announcement of a second reduction of 15 cents, to $9.20. Beet sugar prices were expected to drop also. First Cut Since Boost. The figure quoted is for sugar at the refinery and it marks the first cut since the recent sudden in crease in sugar prices started. "This," said a Santa Ana wholes saler, "is the reaction of the refineries to the recent speculative advance, when manipulators forced the market upward. In Santa Ana, we will meet the reduction, of course, and tomorrow's wholesaler pices will be $9.68 per 100 pounds for beet sugar, and $9.68 for cane, Just how long these prices will prevail is purely problematical." Further Cuts Likely. It was explained, however, that with the opening of the "active" season, about the latter part of April, there would be little likelihood of further radical decreases. On the other hand, some wholesalers believed the price would probably advances are in when the canning the course, and the refineries of $2.500 meets and the price would probably advances and a process of the market and one of the sale of the process of the process of the process of the process of the price would probably advance the price would proba

"THE FAMOUS MRS. FAIR"

The latest whims of fashion are The latest whims of fashion are shown by the feminine members of the cast of the Fred Niblo production, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," based on the great American play by James Forbes, which will be shown for the last time tonight at the Princess theater. Myrtle Stedman, Marguerite de la Motte, Helen Ferguson and Carmel Myers wear several wraps and gowns en Ferguson and Carmel Myers BETTY BLYTHE PICTURE wear several wraps and gowns AT YOST TONIGHT that are stunning creations.

One of the capes worn by Miss Stedman is an evening wrap of platinum gray hare, a Farisian novelty that is quite distinctive.
Another beautiful wrap worn by the same actress is a luxurious cape of ermine, cut on flaring, circular lines and trimmed with erwine tails.

"The Darling of the Rich," Betty Blythe's latest starring vehicle, and widely heralded as one of the finest pictures of the season, will be shown at the Yost theater tonight.

The new picture, with Miss Blythe as the heroine, deals with life among the elite of New York.

Marguerite de la Motte likewise wears several charming costumes.

One of the capes which she wears is of white hare, the new Parisian fur which is very chic. The lining of the wrap is of waite georgette. Another is a rich seal fur coat, very long and wide, trimmed with skunk. A distinctive cape of beaver coney is novel not only because of the unusual cross-bar effect in which the fur is arranged, but also because its lining is of rich brown velvet, embroidered in bronze, making it possible to wear the cape reversed if desired.

There will be two shows tonight at 6:30 and 8:45 o'clock.

"BROTHERS UNDER THE SKIN" OPENS TOMORROW

A diverting comedy of modern marriage is the photoplay, adapted from a magazine story by Peter B. Kyne, "Brothers Under the Skin," which will be the attraction for three days beginning tomorrow, at the West End theater. Its thesis, that all men are brothers, when it becomes a question of marriage and a man's relations with his wife, no matter what their econ-omic or social station in life, is one that permitted Kyne to weave a story about two New York house-holds, one in a poverty-stricken flat, the other in a gilded Riverside Drive apartment house, that lent itself to veracious comedy

The cast is a perfect one—the five principal characters being acted by Helene Chadwick and Pat other by Helene Chadwick and Pat O'Malley (as the poor married couple); by Claire Windsor and Norman Kerry (as the wealthy pair); and by Mae Busch as the inevitable divorcee to be found in every apartment house in New York. Their team work is truly remarkable in picture-making and brings out fully the truth and comedy of Kyne's story. E. Mason brings out fully the truth and com-edy of Kyne's story. E. Mason Hopper directed the photoplay with all that attention to the little human touches which has given him his standing as a director from whom pictures that abound in real human beings whose ac-tions are true to nature and to character may always be expected. character may always be expected.

Few novelists of this generation have been more popular in English speaking countries than Sir Hall Caine, author of the novel, "The Christian," which Maurice Tourneur has produced as a motion picture and which will be the attraction for five days at the Temple theater, beginning tonight.

"The Christian" swept England and her colonies and the United States by storm a quarter of a century ago when it was first published.

Director Tourneur took his principals to England and photographed exteriors in London and on the Isle of Man, with the personal assistance of the author. Permission was obtained, for the first time in history to use Trafalgar Square as the background for a film play.

a film play.

The interiors were made at the Goldwyn studios in California. The story of "The Christian," that of a man who renounces earthly love and tries to live as Christ would were he on earth, is dramatic and compelling and Tourneur has told it in a series of dramatic pictures, always filled with action and against a background of pictorial fate, is suddenly elevated to the rank of a Russian princess. Over-night, she becomes rich and fa-mous, and all Manhattan bows be-fore her shrine.

The story is said to be a fast-moving melodrama of a highly romantic sort.

An honest-to-goodness story is never complete without jewels, and Dorothy Farnum, who wrote "The Darling of the Rich," has woven into the tale the fate of the gems which were the only property which fleeing Russian nobles art yost tonight

BROUGHT IN MONDAY HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 21.—Fifteen hundred barrels of oil was the first outpouring from Well No. 3 of the Ashton lease which came in Monday night. Owing to the large amount of sand, rock and mud which the well is spurting forth no definite estimate of the final daily production can be made. This well, which is the third to come in on this Shell Oil company lease, is the deepest in the coun-

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 21.—Thirty-three pupils varying in age from the first grade child who made no pretense at touching the school senior, presented a varied recital program at the Woman'a Club house Monday evening under the direction of Mrs. Carrie Chalmers, local piano instructor.

Needless to say, that although there were a few minor mistakes as is customary wherever children are performing, all of the little artists did themselves and their teacher justice. It would be impossible to mention many separately, but special note should be made of the introductory selection "Grand Valse Caprice" played with the perfect rhythm and grace of a true artist by Rutha Gire, a high school freshman, and of two numbers of the caprice of the caprice of the caprice of the capric of bers rendered by Marion Morris. Perhaps the most finished and pro-tessional production was the closing number "Kamenoi Ostrow," terpreted truly and accurately by

Edna Hearn. "The Dancing Doll," toe danced by Reba Riley, accompanied by Mrs. June Young proved a dainty feature number. While a bit of Hawalian atmosphere was intro-duced by the vocal solo of "Alo-hoe" sung by Miss Pauline Presment of Miss Rutha Gire and piano notes of Eugenia Gire. All three girls were dressed in the native costume and assumed the poses typical of the peoples they repre-sented. Marion Morris introduced a humorous note in her reading of "Soap." Other members of the program were Sarah Macklin, Lela Everett, Merle Howard, Carrie Colburn, Frances Quiggle, Ramona Moore, (By United Press Leased Wire)

SEE BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Initial Shipment Brings $3.50 Per Box On Cash

Although eastern buyers are al ready seeking information on the valencia crop and are showing keen interest in the outlook, in dications are that extensive valen cia shipments from Orange coun ty will not begin until the latter part of April, or early in May, according to L. D. Palmer, man-ager of the Orange County Fruit

"Despite reports from some buyers that valencia movements will start early, I am inclined to think that this will not prove to be the case," said Palmer.

"Until the 10,000 cars of navels are out of the way, or most of them, at any rate, it would be un-wise, we feel, to flood the market with valencias.

"To the best of my knowledge, our shipments will not begin on a large scale until the latter part of April, or early in May."

Price is High

It is reported that one car of valencia oranges, loaded not over 25 per cent 250s and smaller, was shipped from Orange county March 12 on a $3.50 per box cash

According to the reports compiled by the Produce News, navel orange growers will learn within the next fortnight whether they used good or bad judgment in holding back shipments earlier in the year, only to start with a rush the last week of February, sending out 1.500 cars in a single week.

Farm Advisor Points Out Danger Existing In Many Districts

"An ill-managed cover crop is a positive detriment to a grove, positive detriment to a grove," said H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor here today, discussing conditions prevailing in some localities.

"Considerable loss is entailed by the grower who allows the mature cover crop at this time of year to compete with the citrus tree.

"Hundreds of acres of cover crops are still standing, robbing the soil of moisture during the extreme dry season which has been experienced the last month or so. Where irrigation waters have been applied, the danger of competition has been minimized to a certain extent, but it would have been better for the welfare of the tree to have turned the cover crop under a month prior to blossoming out.

"The exact time for turning under the crop cannot be laid down as an iron clad rule. For instance, this year the blossoming season started before March 1, while last as an iron clad rule. For instance, this year the blossoming season started before March 1, while last year it was almost May 1.

"It is a common idea among many growers that delayed turning of the cover crop is advantageous from a tonnage standpoint, but, on the other hand, the loss due to excessive moisture transpiration and evaporation, and the delayed process of decomposition more than unbalances such tonnage gain, and the tree actually nage gain, and the tree actually registers the adverse condition by yellowing of the foilage and weak-ening its ability to set fruit.

"Closer attention to the relation of the temporary cover crop to the permanent citrus crop should be given by the grower.

"It is much safer to turn a smaller crop at the proper time than take a chance on a heavier tonnage later, that will afford too much competition."

Alfalfa Waist High In March Is Grown At Oakdale

OAKDALE, March 21 .- W. OAKDALE, March 21.—W. H. Lane of the Leitch colony has a fine crop of alfalfa on 14 acres, high enough to cut, but for the difficulty of curing at this time. Lane declares that his early alfalfa is due to the fact that he skipped the last irrigation last fall. It is his opinion that ranchers here use too much water, and he is of the opinion that he can produce more alfalfa with less water, rather than additional water.

Lane's ranch is on the Valley highway, and his alfalfa crop is attracting much attention. "It's heavier now than most of my neighbors," he said, "but I not only used less water but I also did not cultivate. It appropriate the said of not cultivate it any more than others. Misuse of federal grades is being made by the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture. Several instances of the mis-branding of potato sacks and other containers have come to the department's attention and prompt action to discourage the practice is being initiated.

Misuse of federal grades for agricultural products through the misbranding of packages moving in interstate commerce has been held by the United States district court to be a violation of the food and drug act, as is any other form of misbranding, and the law has been invoked by the department of agriculture in four cases.

Monday, some of the mail carriers did not succeed in making even one complete delivery of the mail that accumulated over the week-end.

This was owing to the recent ruling of the post office department, cutting off overtime pay for employes, and due to the fact that such employes are permitted to work in their comments, according to Postmaster C. D. Overshiner.

"The men who protested were quite reasonable about it," he said.

"We are doing the best we can under the 'circumstances. Conditions are such that deliveries are bound to be slow at least until July 1—unless some action to meet the emergency is taken before that time."

NEW YORK, March 20.—The quantity of liquor being smuggled into the United States from vessels operating at present off the New England coast, New York and New Jersey, is estimated at 25,000 to 35,000 cases weekly by a recently retired prohibition official, who attributed the government's inability to cope with the situation to lack of adequate pursuit craft. Opposed to the New York and New Jersey liquor squadrons, it was said, were only two customs boats available for duty in this vicinity. The liquor coming into the country is being shipped direct from Scotland, the former official said, the Bahamas having been eliminated as a source of supply.

Farm Advisor Points Out Danger Existing In Many Districts

"An ill-managed cover crop is a positive detriment to a grove," said H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor here today, discussing conditions prevailing in some localities.

"Considerable loss is entailed by

"Hundreds of acres of cover crops are still standing, robbing the soil of moisture during the extension of the soil of the standing that he are the control of the standing that he can be still standing the soil of the standing that he can be still standing the standing that he can be still standing the standing that the standing the standing the standing that the standing the standing that the standing the standing that the standing that the standing that the standin the soil of moisture during the extreme dry season which has been experienced the last month or so. Where irrigation waters have been applied, the danger of competition has been minimized to a certain extent, but it would have been better for the welfare of the tree to have turned the cover crop under a month prior to blossoming out. "The exact time for turning under the crop cannot be laid down as an iron clad rule. For instance, this year the blossoming season started before March 1, while last year it was almost May 1.

"It is a common idea among many growers that delayed turning of the cover crop is advantageous from a tonnage standpoint, but, on the other hand, the loss large expensive moisture trans-

"Closer attention to the relation of the temporary cover crop to the permanent citrus crop should be iven by the grower.

"It is much safer to turn a smaller crop at the proper time than take a chance on a heavier tonnage later, that will afford too much competition."

Tanlace Was Little Short of Marvelous—Had Suffered Three Years Without Obtaining Relief.

A recent interview with Mrs. M. C. Sampley, 1026 23rd St., Los Angeles, Cal., disclosed the fact that, by the help of the Tanlac treatment, she has succeeded in overcoming physical troubles from which it was said she could not recover except by an operation. The unpleasant recollection of her three years of suffering plainly showed in Mrs. Sampley's face as she told of various treatments that failed to afford her any lasting relief, but the evidence of her present good health could not be denied in her smile as she emphasized the benefits she had received from Tanlac.

"A twenty-five pound gain in weight is one of the things Tanlac did for me," said Mrs. Sampley, "but that is as nothing compared to the fact that my troubles."

One kind explodes instantaneously—detonates. It depends on a single crash for the power to drive the piston.

Union Non-Detonating Gasoline explodes in a different way. It thrusts the piston by a long, sustained impulse. It has a "follow through"-exerts a steady pressure throughout the entire stroke.

Detonation Less Efficient

A crashing explosion is less efficient than one that's prolonged.

It limits the compression because of the tendency to explode prematurely. It can vibration, which means wear and tear.

The Sustained Explosion

The prolonged explosion of Union Non-Det-onating Gasoline provides progressive, sus-

Increased Efficiency

Increased efficiency is dependent on com-pression, the complete burning of the fuel and smooth impulses.

Therefore Union Non-Detonating Gasoline gives a new "lift" on the hills, more speed on the straightaway and a smoother, stronger rush in the "pick-up."

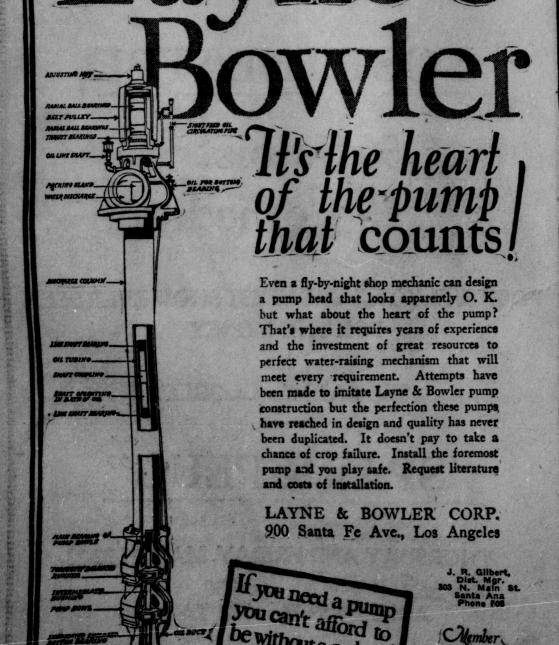

And there's less wear and tear because vibration is reduced.

This higher efficiency means economy also. Union Non-Detonating Gasoline is always uniform. It doesn't disintegrate, thus doesn't deteriorate in storage. It has all the power when you use it that it has when it leaves the Union plants.

KANGAROO SHOES FOR MEN

Preferred by Men Who Want the Very Best Stylish, Pliable, Comfortable, Long Wearing

If you have never worn a pair of Kangaroo leather shoes, there is a surprise in store for you. Kangaroo leather has all the qualities of fine kid and the toughness of calf skin. It is soft and flexible, yet will hold its shape and style. Because of its brilliant polish it has the dressy appearance of patent leather. The wonderfully tough grain will not crack, rough or peel and on account of its extreme toughness will stand resoling again and again.

A pair of shoes made from this wonderful leather will give greater wear and continue to retain their style and finish longer than any others you ever wore.

Note the reasonable prices at which these splendid shoes are offered.

Janet Tells the Story

He said good night pleasantly and left me. I went back to my room, undressed, and donned a complete suit of Mr. Bloor's eveand left me. I went back to my room, undressed, and donned a complete suit of Mr. Bloor's evening clothes, and theater hat, which I had taken the liberty of borrowing from his room. At the tirne when I knew that the nightwatchman's back was turned, I slipped out, descended a few of the stairs which were exactly opposite my door, ascended them again noisily, walked along the corridor, entered Mr. Bloor's room, waited here a moment or two, came out again, and entered the sitting-room of our suite. In ten minutes I was back in my bedroom with the diamonds. In an hour's time Mr. Bloor's clothes were back in his room and the diamonds safely disposed of.

"Mr. Bloor has two very landsolmed pins in his possession, but he was clever enough to admit at once that these were given him by the decased."

"You haven't been able to collect any evidence as to his having spoken to anyone outside, on his way back to the Royal?"

"Not at present, I am sorry to say, sir."

"What about this discropancy in the alleged time of his visit"

"That is another of the things we are trying to straighten out. Anyway, the night-watchman, who is a very respectable fellow, is prepared to swear that he saw Sidney Bloor re-enter the suite, even though his idea of the time seems to be out. Assuming that the theft not owing to any request from my friend Rimmington that I became interested in the Brighton robbery and murder case. Philip Harris, who was a director of the hotel company, wrote me a personal let-ter, asking me to represent the in-terests of the hotel in any way I thought fit, and it was on the strength of this appeal that I trav-eled down to Brighton and took up my temporary residence at the Magnificent Hotel. Within a few minutes of my arrival the manager himself waited upon me. Almost before we had shaken hands, he had commenced to unburden him-

"There is just one small matter, Sir Norman," he said, "which worried me a little. Mr. Sidney Bloor is all the time practically under arrest. He has left the hotel and is staying in lodgings on the front, but he is watched night and day." "There seems to be a moderate-ly clear case against him," I re-

SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead the officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. In many exploits, Michael escapes arrest by taking desperate chances. Janet is an able assistant, but because he greatly admires the many good qualities he recognizes in her, Sir Norman deals leniently with her.

Janet goes to work for Mrs. Trumperton-Smith, a wealthy widow living at the Magnificent Hotel at Brighton, who is the possessor of wonderful diamonds. Mr. Sidney Bloor, adventurer and pretended admirer of Janet's mistress, plans to steal the diamonds. Janet also means to rob her mistress.

"And what is your comment upon his story?" I asked.

"Just this," was the earnest reply: "There is no doubt whatever that the young man did return to the hotel alone, but whereas the nightwatchman swears that he saw him enter Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite at half-past ten, the hall-porter downstairs, two of the pages and a reception-clerk are equally positive that it was exactly midnight when he came in and went upstairs."

"This divergence of evidence," I observed, "is interesting, but I scarcely see what it leads to. Perhaps I had better talk to Mr. Johnson for a little time."

The chief constable himself paid me the honor of a visit, accompanied by Johnson, who was an exceedingly painstaking and capable officer.

"You say that none of the jew-

"And Mr. Bloor's own story?" "He came a terrible cropper, sir." Johnson declared, a little triumphantly. "He at first stated that he only left the bridge table when he cut out, to get some fresh air—that he leaned over the wall of the promenade, looking at the sea, the whole of the time. Aftersea, the whole of the time. After ward he admitted that he had vis ited the hote! and gone up for a moment to Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's suite, where he thought he

Wonderful Lessons in the Bible's English for Writers and Speakers

Shakespeare was master of nearly twenty thousand words. Milton of about thirteen thousand. But the whole King James Version of the Bible contains not over six thousand words; not a half of Milton's, not a third of Shakespeare's vecabulary.

Short words are always strong words; they explode like bullets. Do you know that the average word in the English Bible, including even the proper names, is composed of less than five letters? Leave out the proper names and the average word wouldn't have even four letters. In the beloved 23rd Psalm there are 119

the Sermon on the Mount more than 80 per cent are words of one syllable. In the Ten Commandments, on which are based all the laws of all the world, there are 319 words; 259 are words of one syllable; and only 60 of two and more syllables. In Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg, perhaps the greatest in the world, there are 266 words. Of these, 194 words are of one syllable; 53 of two syllables; and only 19 of three or more

There is food for thought in these figures. What an improvement in our writers and speakers, if, like Lincoln, they would only give study to the English of the Bible.

Those payments were to be made to the Principal Allied and Associated Powers, of which the United States was named as one. Furthermore, the separate treaty ratified between the United States and Germany specifically reserved all the rights obtained through both the armistice agreement

The validity of the American claim not only has never been questioned by the Allies, but it has been endorsed without qualification by both Great Britain.

They amount to about 3,500,000,000 gold marks, half represented by cash payments, and the rest by payments in kind. In spite of reminders from Secretary Hughes that this country would insist on its share, all of those payments have been absorbed by the European powers, and no attention seems to have been paid to the American claim of about 1,000,000,000 gold marks ($250,000,000). # Cities Leading in Political Reform

Better Run Than States, Says Professor Hatton.

By Prof. A. R. Hatton,
Noted Student of and Lecturer on Municipal Government and Civic Problems.

More than half the people of the United States now live in cities. For a long time observers of the growth and drift of population have seen this condition approaching. Only a few years ago thoughtful people viewed its coming with great concern. And well they might, If conditions of government and life in American cities had remained as they were 25 years ago we might now be trembling for the future of American institutions.

But American city government is now distinctly on the up-grade. Cities, instead of being a clog on political progress, are pointing the way. Practically every reform now being urged for our state and national governments was first applied, tried out and proved in the cities.

Scores of American cities are better governed than any of our states. Few indeed are as badly managed as most American counties.

What has brought about this change? Certainly it has not been due to chance or to a sudden awakening of the people by some great ability. Mr. H. S. Gilbertson, the author of articles which are to be published in The Register, is one of these.

These people have not believed in short cuts to municipal salvation. Best of all, they have refused to give up their ideals of democracy.

They have not thought that cities could be saved by some hocus-ports of the power to control their governments. On the control of government must be extended.

This is why we can look forward with such confidence to control of government. The progress so far has been based on investigation and sound thinking, not on guess.
